CLAIMS OF THE CHAIRMEN

Mr. Jones is Confident and Mr. Hanna Says He Feels Like It Will be Unanimous.

Democratic Chairman Jones gives out the following signed statement:

"I am confident that Mr. Bryan will be elected President. There will be a landslide in his favor. The issues of the campaign are now understood and the people will doom imperialism, militarism and trusts."

In a speech at Goshen, Indiana, yesterday, Republican Chairman Hanna said:

"I almost think that this election will be unanimous; this great outpouring means much. Bryan has been preaching free silver, imperialism anti-trusts; he has dragged these issues into the campaign for the purpose of deceiving the people. There is nothing in this contest, but let well enough alone."

Deputy Sheriff Weatherly's "Trick" Dog.

Deputy Sheriff John Weatherly is the owner of a little dog, of the rat terrier species, of which he is very proud. He is very intelligent, even for a smart dog, and has been taught a number of amusing tricks.

Standing in front of the court house the other evening, his master commanded him to "show the gentlemen how Jule Carr will walk when he is elected Senator." The pet canine appeared to feel highly honored at being asked to imitate so distinguished a citizen, and rearing upon his hind legs, walked across the lawn with all the grace and dignity his dogship could command.

Marriage of Mr. Petty and Miss Worth.

Mr. Charles W. Petty, of this city, and Miss Ruth Worth, of Raleigh, were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents, State Treasurer and Mrs. W. H. Worth. The marriage was a quiet home affair, the ceremony being witnessed by a few of the relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Petty arrived in Greensboro this morning and are stopping with the groom's mother, on West Washington street.

Halloween Party.

Misses Harris entertained a number of their friends last night at their home on Walker avenue, by a most enjoyable Halloween party. A number of games apropos of the occasion were indulged in, some of them provoking much merriment. In the bowl of four game Mr. J. S. Kuykendall was the victim, having to secure the ring from beneath the flour by the use of his teeth.

At a late hour the guest reluctantly departed to bring to a close so charming an evening.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

A white man by the name of Rowe, residing at Proximity, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant sent here from Goldsboro. He is charged with a complaint which is made by a widow.

Rowe is a widower and has three children. His home was formerly in Goldsboro, but recently he came to this city and obtained employment in the Proximity Cotton Mills.

Death of Mr. Prosser.

Mr. Isaac Prosser, who was a citizen of Greensboro awhile, when connected with the operatives at the Furnace, died at Ironton, Ala., on Wednesday of last week, of paralysis, having been sick only a few hours. Mr. Prosser was well known here and made many friends during his short stay.

Death of Mr. Jesse Benbow.

Mr. Jesse Benbow, of Oak Ridge, this county, died last night at 10 o'clock. He was over 85 years of age, having been born in 1815. The funeral services will take place from his late home tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

Will Remodel His Store.

Mr. Howard Gardner has let the contract for the remodeling of his store. Several changes will be made in the interior and when completed it will be one of the handsomest stores in town.

MARRIAGES AT HIGH POINT.

ONE LAST NIGHT AND ONE TODAY.

Miss Fisher Weds Mr. Phillip B. Rogers, of South Carolina—Miss Jackson and Mr. Hiatt—A Roller Mill With a Capacity of 150 Barrels Daily—Mr. Price Speaks Tonight.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, Nov. 1.—The marriage of Miss Eliza Fisher, of High Point, and Mr. Phillip B. Rogers, of Little Rock, S. C., was solemnized in the First Presbyterian church here this morning at 11 o'clock. Although the wedding was a quiet one and no invitations issued, there was a large crowd present to witness the ceremony.

The bride has lived at High Point all her life and is from one of the oldest families in the State. She is very popular here. The groom is a prosperous farmer in the cotton belt of South Carolina. The bridal couple left on the noon train for an extended bridal tour.

Last night at the home of the bride, in the southeastern part of the city, Mr. James S. Hiatt and Miss Cordella Jackson, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Shubal Jackson. The groom is employed in one of the furniture factories here. After the wedding a supper was served to the large number of invited friends.

Mr. J. H. Fisher, a prominent business man of Edgefield, S. C., was here to attend the Rogers-Fisher nuptials.

Several of our people attended the fair at Winston yesterday. All report a pleasant time and one of the best fairs ever held in this State.

One of the business men here informs your correspondent that a stock company has been organized to erect a roller mill with a capacity of 150 barrels daily. Our informant is the mover of the enterprise and is familiar with every detail of the milling business. It is the intention of the company to buy a site along the railroad and commence work on the buildings early next year. The names of the stockholders are withheld at the solicitation of our informant.

A. H. Price, Republican elector-at-large, speaks here tonight.

Solicitor Brooks' Appointments.

Solicitor A. L. Brooks will devote the remainder of this week to speaking in the western part of the State, under auspices of the Democratic Executive Committee.

Last night he spoke in High Point and tonight he will fill an appointment in Lexington. Tomorrow night he will speak in Asheville and in Hendersonville Saturday. Monday night he will be in Randleman.

Premiums for Skilled Work.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College for the colored race was awarded three premiums—two for wood work and one for iron work—at the State fair, in Raleigh, last week. This week the exhibits are among the attractions at the colored State fair. Of course the college will receive several premiums there.

Quail Shooting Began Today.

Taking advantage of the expiration of the bird law, many hunters went out today to try their luck in the field. Birds are said to be quite plentiful this season, and the sport will doubtless be good. Many Northern hunters will be in this section, some of them having already sent their dogs down to be put in training.

A Wood Sawyer Needed.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

If some enterprising man will take his horse and a little horse-power wood saw, and saw up at once, in November, the big piles of winter wood now in the back-lots of many citizens, he will secure this big job of cutting their entire winter wood—15 or 20 cords—to last till spring. He will do this work before the snow and rain set in; he will pay for his saw and power in two days and later on, will saw the wood still coming in, at his leisure.

This will pay the sawyer, be a great convenience to many citizens and is much better on the wood, as it dries out much more rapidly after being cut up.

Yours etc.,
A. L. CORDER.

WHY NOT?

The People and the Many Workers Who Strove in Behalf of Anglo-Saxon Rule Should Have Some Recognition.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

There is a very readable and sensible article in one of the prominent daily papers of the State, which we commend to an impartial and critical public. It is to the effect that when Vance rescued the State in 1876, he got credit for it, and was rewarded accordingly, and the question is asked why is not Aycock who made one of the most brilliant campaigns ever made in the State entitled to some credit for the victory? Some people are bold enough to think that Bob Glenn, Lee Overman, Dah Hugh McLean, Alfred M. Waddell, Thos. J. Jarvis, Lock Craig, Frank Osborne, and other tireless and indefatigable workers had nothing to do with the results of the election, others have the tenacity to venture the opinion that there were a great many other white men in the State who contributed largely to the result. Some say that even Gen. Carr made speeches and spent his money toward the result, yet there are those who seem to think that because Mr. Simmons was Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, a mere incident in his life, that he is, therefore, entitled to all the credit for the victory, and therefore entitled to the Senatorship. We don't know of another instance where the Chairman of the State Executive Committee claimed a right to the highest office within the gift of the people for the successful result of an election, and especially so when that result was accomplished by the eloquence of our greatest speakers and the patriotism of the people. This last election was the voice of the people in behalf of Anglo-Saxon rule, and it would have been the same whether we had a chairman or not. So let us seek other and better reasons in behalf of Mr. Simmons. No doubt there are others, but this should not be paramount and conclusion. Gen. Carr has many claims on the people which might likewise be considered in this connection.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

First Meeting to be Held on the 24th Instant.

The following notice has been issued: "The first meeting of the Teachers' Association of Guilford county, organized at the close of the last County Institute, is called to meet in Greensboro on Saturday, November 24th, at 11 a. m."

"We trust every teacher, public or private, and all friends of education in the county, will be present at this meeting. Let us all come together and consider the important duties, interests and responsibilities resting upon us. Almost every other class of professional men and women are organized for mutual benefit. Why are we not? In union there is strength. A short and interesting program has been arranged for the first meeting, and the work of the Institute will be continued as far as practicable. The association is yours to be used as you see fit, for mutual improvement and for the advancement of the great work in which you are engaged. Come and bring your friends."

"J. Y. JOYNER, President.

"J. R. WHARTON, County Supt.

"H. B. SMITH, Secretary."

Revolution, N. C.

A postoffice is to be established at the Revolution Cotton Mills, to be known as Revolution. Supplies for the new office have been received from the Postoffice Department. Mr. H. Sternberger will be the postmaster.

Mill Trouble Will Not Effect Kitchin.

Burlington News. For some reason the impression has gone abroad that the mill trouble in Alamance will effect Mr. W. W. Kitchin's chances of reelection to Congress—that the operatives are in favor of Mr. Joyce. We do not think there is any truth in the impression. In the first place, politics is not playing any prominent part in the trouble, and in the second, we believe that the people have always found Mr. Kitchin their friend and a friend to their interests.

RICE WILL CASE CLEARED UP

CONFESSION, ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Chas. F. Jones, the Millionaire's Valet, Clears up the Mystery—He and Patrick Killed Rice and Then Forged His Name For Big Amounts and Made a Fraudulent Will.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Nov. 1.—Chas. F. Jones, the valet of the late millionaire Rice, cut his throat in the Tombs prison this morning at 4 o'clock. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where he is closely watched by two keepers. The surgeons say he will probably recover.

A few hours before the attempt to kill himself Jones made a full confession that he and Patrick killed Rice with poison, and then forged his name to a fraudulent will, and to checks on various banks to the extent of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars. When led back to the Tombs Jones told everything. "Patrick," he said, "drew a penknife from his pocket and gave it to me, saying, 'The best thing you can do is to take this and cut your throat.' So I went to my sell and tried to kill myself."

Whole Family Narrowly Escaped Suffocation.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Nov. 1.—Peter Saerrenson, his wife, and five children narrowly escaped suffocation this morning by escaping gas in an apartment house at Williamsburg. They went to bed at 10 o'clock last night. When he woke this morning he fell back as he was getting up from the bed, and discovered the whole family suffering. Only by timely aid they recovered.

Remains of Bodies Were Only Glass.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Nov. 1.—Joseph Bacarach, a merchant who was cut by flying glass from the Tarrant fire, died this morning. He is the first known victim, the supposed human fragments found having been discovered to be nothing but composites of glass.

WILL TAKE CARE, SAYS JONES.

The Fight Has Been Won for Democracy, and the Democrats Will Not be Cheated out of the Victory—"Throw Those Fellows Out."

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 31.—Senator Jones Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, speaking of Croker's recent suggestion that "Democratic voters congregated about the polling places on the evening of election day count numbers, then if the election returns for Bryan do not tally with their count, go into the polling places and throw these fellows in charge of the returns into the street," said:

"I don't see anything wrong with that suggestion."

"Senator Hill, I believe, suggested a baseball bat as being peculiarly appropriate to render justice in a corrupt election. In my opinion, the best way is for Democrats to be at the polls when they are opened and to remain there in good, strong relays until the count is completed. It should be the duty of these Democrats to watch the judges and the count, and to see to it that no fraud is committed, and if fraud is attempted to stop it then and there."

"The Democratic party is opposed to violence, but at the same time I feel warranted in saying that Democrats fully intend to reap the fruits of their victory. If intimidation is attempted at the polls or fraudulent counting by election judges, there will be Democrats in the vicinity ready to take just such action as may be necessary to stop it."

"There will be neither intimidation at the polls, ballot box stuffing nor fraudulent counting this year. If either is attempted it will be stopped there and then. And if any one gets hurt in this process of prevention I hope it will not be the honest men who are doing his duty fairly and well. The Democrats have made an honest campaign. We have appealed to the heads and hearts of the American people. We have won the fight and by heaven we will not be defrauded out of our victory by the chicanery of election judges. If our Republican friends will be honest there will be no trouble, but intimidation at the polls or attempted dishonesty will be met with such methods as may be necessary and entirely efficient."

A STRONG MAN GROWN WEAK

The Honorable Josiah Turner Made a Speech in the Court House Last Night.

Yesterday afternoon an old gentleman with long white hair, and a face that would secure second look anywhere, came to town. He wore an old time beaver stove pipe hat and carried a large rough cane. A little before dusk he had printed and put out 2000 of the following hand bills:

"Hon Josiah Turner, Jr., falsely known as the King of the Ku-Klux, will speak in the court house, tonight at 8:30 o'clock."

Until this was issued no one except the old friends whom he would now and then meet seemed to know him, and no one at all knew why he was here nor what he expected to speak about. He must have wandered aimlessly from his home near Hillsboro. He would only say that he didn't expect to make the speech that the crazy woman at Smithfield court asked him to make for her when he first appeared at the bar there. Then he would tell this story, which all his old friends appeared to have often heard before.

Finally, about 9 o'clock, after much ringing of the bell, a handful of people, both white and black, had assembled through curiosity at the court house. He got up to announce that he would not speak to so small a crowd, but instead of quitting, kept on talking in a rambling way of his experiences and recollections of twenty-five and thirty years ago, and back before the war. His mind seemed to dwell mostly upon the war and its causes, and he denounced Thomas Jefferson as responsible for it, along with Jeff Davis. All this was as foolishness to the younger men who heard him, as he spoke in detail of the less well known facts of history. Verily it was all as a voice from the tomb, for the old man spoke as if the occurrences were all yesterday. He spoke at least an hour and a half.

There is nothing so sad as the spectacle of a strong man grown weak. Such was this. But now and then, even, there were flashes, as lightning from the darkness, which told what this man once was in the day when he was a power in the land.

LITTLE BONI MAD.

Says Brother-in-Law Gould is About to Put the Screws on Him.

By Wire to The Telegram. Paris, Nov. 1.—Count De Castellane deeply resents the intrusion of the Goulds into the affairs of his wife. He expresses keen disappointment that his father, the Marquis, was not selected as trustee. The marquis said "Boni with difficulty will bear this bondage. We feel that George Gould will administer the estate with harsh parsimony. Boni and the Gould brothers could not agree and, as trustee, my son and I thought I could serve him equally as well."

CELEBRATED HIS WINNING.

Sporting Man Makes $5,000 and Drinks a Glass of Buttermilk on It.

"You talk about your cold feet—I saw a couple the night of the Fitz-Rubin fight that gave me a cold for a week," said the barkeeper in a La Salle street wet goods house to a Chicago Chronicle man.

"Did they give you lung trouble?" put in a customer.

"No, but they made me feel like the ice man or a frosty morning in Spitzbergen."

"That was cold. How did it come about?"

"Well, you see, we have a ticker in here and during the fight got the rounds as they were pulled off. Early during the game a man drifted in here and took up a position before the ticker. He was seated and had his eyes glued to the ticker all the while."

"Whoop!" he yelled as the sixth round was over. 'I've won nearly $5,000,' and he started for the bar, where he counted out his betting tickets. In addition he had several hundred dollars in cash, for which he had been unable to find takers."

"What happened then?" the customer asked.

"He bought a glass of buttermilk and slipped out."

"Is that how you pay your brewery bills, rent, light and insurance?" "Not on the money of a fellow like that," and the bartender's countenance bespoke the disgust that was within him.

SPENCE, HIRAM AND JIM TALK

AND INTERPERSE A FEW SMILES

Throw Out Some Thoughts on the Politics of the Fourth District—The Work Proposed for the Great Eastern Railway—Best Exhibit at the Fair is by the A. & M. of Greensboro.

Special Correspondence of The Telegram.

Raleigh, Nov. 1.—Some of the Republicans and even some of the Populists are now saying that the Republicans will carry this State. This is really the climax of absurdity, but they profess to believe what they say.

On the other hand Democrats who ought to know what they are talking about say that the Populists and Republicans in considerable numbers are preparing to qualify themselves to vote against Simmons at the primary. They have such advices from various sources, here in Raleigh and elsewhere.

There is a movement to erect a statue of Calvin H. Wiley, the father of the present public school system of the State, in capitol square, and to raise the money by popular subscription.

The equipment of the Melrose Knitting Mill here is ordered and in 60 days will be in operation.

The best exhibit at the negro State fair, now in progress here, is that by the Agricultural & Mechanical College at Greensboro.

Engineer Chapman, of the Great Eastern Railway, is here. He was a caller at the corporation commission office. He says he is looking into the question of the outlook for business here, to see whether the road should not come to Raleigh. It is now under construction between Fremont, a station on the Wilmington and Weldon Railway, north of Goldsboro, and Snow Hill. Several hundred men are employed on the grading, and some miles of track are laid. It is the purpose, Chapman says, to go to Engelhard, in Hyde county, on Pamlico sound. As the road is proposed to run it would be something like 128 miles between Raleigh and Engelhard.

Yesterday the two white men of New Light township, Mangum and O'Neal, charged with murdering Peter Griffin, were to have been given a hearing here, but it is deferred for a fortnight. They have been in jail since last Friday, without privilege of bail.

Spencer Adams, who failed to be elected governor, J. A. Giles, of Chatham, who will fail to be elected to Congress from this district, and H. L. Grant, clerk of the United States District Court, were talking recently. Maj. Grant, speaking about Giles' chances, said the Democrats were patting J. J. Jenkins, the Populist nominee for Congress, on the back and paying him to stay in the field. Adams gave a smile and bow in assent, and Giles said he had not before heard of it. Major Grant says that if Jenkins stays in, it will give the Democrats a chance to divide the Republican vote and thereby make a successful contest impossible. Of course, the entire outfit knows perfectly well that it is beaten and has not a ghost of a chance.

Yesterday afternoon Commissioner of Agriculture Patterson and your correspondent took a walk through the farms. The cotton fields were a curiosity to the Commissioner as they may well be just now to anybody. He declared that if he had not seen the strange sight the cotton plants now present he would not have believed such a thing possible on the 30th of October. The plants are a third taller than they were forty-five days ago, and the tops are masses of old bolls, squares and blooms. The new growth is from a foot to two feet, and the number of new bolls, squares and blooms run as high as 27 to the plant. Stranger still, not only are there new bolls at the top but on the bottom limbs as well. In other words the plants which seemed late in August to be about lifeless, and from which squares etc., had fallen in great numbers, are now as full of vitality as if it were early summer. In one field a farmer was cutting the rich green plants as forage for the cattle. He said he was sure the frost would catch the top crop. He expressed his own amazement at the appearance of the cotton, saying that he had heard of nothing like it before. On this particular farm is the old Hunter mansion and the commissioner was deeply interested in the exceedingly fine woodwork of the stately old house, now quite uncared for. In this house the rooms are of immense size and one has two fireplaces, with a door entering from the hall and another from the outside between the two chimneys. The weatherboarding of this house is a superb example of early work of that kind, and would astonish a carpenter of the present day. All the nails are handmade. The grave of Mr. Hunter, who in long-gone days was one of the magnates of this part of the State, is in a tangled wilderness of cedars, and thorn locusts, ground ivy, pokeberry and raspberry vines, and its brick top is falling in ruins.

Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

A MOST SHAMEFUL MURDER.PENNSYLVANIA MAN KILLS HIS WIFE

Intended to Kill Himself at Once, but Lost His Nerve and Waited Till Later, but Finally did So—Left a Little Girl Who is Yet Asking for Mama—Was Afraid His Wife Would Leave Him.

Reading, Pa., Special.

On a slab in the Morgue lies the body of Mrs. Emma Keffer, beautiful in death, who was the victim of the foulest murder ever committed in Berks county. Alongside, on another slab, is stretched out another form, which mutely tells the tale of the awful tragedy. The mystery that arose with the finding of the woman's body on the desolate road off Oley turnpike yesterday, which promised in the unravelling a startling sensation, was cleared away this morning, when, in the gray light of the dawn, the slain one's husband and murderer, Charles A. Keffer, was found still warm in death, at the Philadelphia & Reading Railway coal chutes. He had added another victim to his list of horrible crimes—himself. Having speeded a bullet into his brain in the same manner he so cowardly sent his wife to an untimely death, the slayer died a suicide. In a letter he told of his double deed.

LIKE THE KAISER MURDER.

In many respects the murder of Mrs. Keffer, who was only 24 years old, is the repetition of the diabolical tragedy which ended the life of Mrs. Kaiser, of Norristown, over three years ago. Singularly enough the names of the parties who figured in these murders are similar. Mrs. Kaiser's name was also Emma, and that of her husband, who also took her out on a lonely road in a carriage, to be shot to death, was Charles. Then he, too, committed suicide, though not until after he had been sentenced to death. The murderer and suicide was 26 years of age and belonged to one of Reading's most prominent families, his father being A. T. C. Keffer, ex-member of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. Mrs. Keffer's family are also highly respected.

PLANNED DEED MONTHS AGO.

The verdict was that Keffer played the part of a fiend. For months he had cunningly planned to kill his wife and at least thrice started to execute the plans, but each time, being a coward at heart, his courage failed him. The story of the Keffers is the simple one of family friction. The dead couple were married nearly five years ago. Mrs. Keffer had become a Catholic to please her husband, but they never got along smoothly on the question of religion. This fact worked Keffer up considerably and the jars became so intense last summer that his wife left him and remained away five weeks. They came together again, but she had threatened to again leave him, which is believed to have determined her husband in his frightful course. As told by the dead woman's mother the first time Keffer sought to end her life was when, according to Mrs. Keffer, her husband placed rat poison in some medicine she was taking. She was made sick by a swallow of the stuff, but did not take enough to cause a fatal effect.

KEFFER A JEKYL AND HYDE.

Mrs. Keffer told her mother about that attempt last Saturday and cried as she added: "Mother, if ever you hear of my sudden death don't be surprised, and don't let them bury me without holding a post-mortem examination on my body." The murdered woman had expressed herself as of the belief that her husband had grown tired of her, and her mother had declared that she would take her daughter and the latter's little girl home. Then there seemed to come a change in the husband's conduct. Keffer spent most of the past week in devoted attentions to his wife. He made her heart throb with joy at the thought that he was learning to love her all over again. But Keffer was playing the double roll of Jekyll and Hyde. He was waiting the opportunity to kill the woman he was professing to love, the mother of their handsome little daughter. Bent on murder, he took his wife out carriage riding and chestnuting three times. On each occasion he carried the weapon of death and the dark design, but twice his heart failed him. Perhaps her merry laugh as she sat at his side in the carriage or gathered chestnuts that he had knocked off the trees softened his steely heart, and he could not strike the fatal blow.

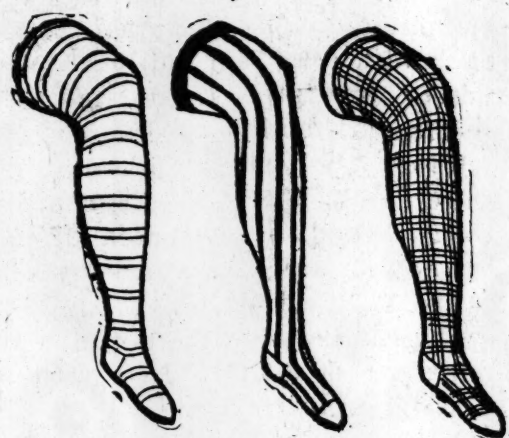

MADE HER HAPPY TO KILL HER.

On Wednesday last Keffer took his

SHALL WE HAVE A REFORMATORY?

Referring to the discussion regarding the establishment of a reformatory by the next legislature, The Raleigh Times gives its endorsement to the efforts of the association recently formed for the purpose of pushing the matter, and then remarks:

The next legislature should certainly establish this institution. The writer has for years advocated its establishment, and the movement has for years had the endorsement of the leading clergymen of almost every denomination. While there are other things needed in the State, and the legislature must make provisions for the betterment of the school system, it should by all means make provision for the reformatory. It may mean some little expenditure at the beginning, but in the end it will be economy to the State.

This object, like many other good ones, belongs to that unfortunate class which gets the endorsement of every one and the specific efforts of no one, but like the desires of the Prohibitionists, are considered too good to be true. Perhaps, now that a society has been formed to push the matter, something may come of it.

Rev. F. M. Royal, who has been a missionary in China, is quoted thus: "I have seen Duke's cigarettes sold on the streets of China where the message of my Master had never been told. The pictures of naked women taken from the packs of cigarettes were pushed at me, and I was taunted and told that was the way American women went." Brother Royal might have explained that that was the way that our ladies in the circus went.

Mr. John Morrow, a member of the Greensboro band, died last Saturday and the band in a body headed the funeral procession making suitable music. A brass band on the streets on Sunday was probably more novel than inappropriate.—Concord Standard.

We call our contemporary's attention to the fact that this was a performance by our brother in black.

We believe that no one has yet made the point, that of the sensational supplements sent out to the weekly papers from the headquarters, those of Mr. Simmons are printed on much poorer paper than Mr. Carr's.

If Grover is compelled to prove his character in substantiating his denial of that interview he should fight shy of summoning any of the boys who didn't get what they asked for about eight years ago.

The Honorable Marcus Hanna is piling up an immense crowd eating contract in case Mr. Bryan is elected.

With all due respect to Mr. C. M. Busbee we are compelled to put him in the Jim Jones' class.

Mr. Bryan says that dinner pail isn't full after all.

The Price.
Concord Times.
Let no Democrat forget that eternal vigilance is the price of victory at the polls as well as liberty.

When a young man once gets fairly started on the downward path he doesn't attempt to to back pedal.

WHAT THE TOURISTS SPEND.

Many Millions of Dollars Are Lost Annually in Switzerland and the Riviera.

An astonishing contrast is apparent in the sums of money spent by the average visitor to these two world-famous pleasure resorts, says the New York World. In the season of 1898 about 2,300,000 tourists visited Switzerland. They paid to the landlords of 1,800 hotels and inns a little less than $25,000,000. The average hotel bill was, therefore, only about $1. In addition to this, about $6,000,000 was expended for trinkets and mementoes.

These two items, in addition to a comparatively small outlay for horses and carriages, form the principal means of subsistence of the vast number of people whose livelihood is dependent on the natural features of the "playground of Europe."

The figures for the Riviera are very different. In the first place, a season's visitors are not to be reckoned by millions. A recent estimate puts the annual number at 270,000, of whom 60,000 were English and 30,000 Americans, and the money expended at about $60,000,000, or $225 for the average visitor.

Coal in the Rockies.

By far the most important mining work in progress in British Columbia is the opening up of the vast areas of the Crow's Nest—undoubtedly one of the largest coal properties known. The measures occur in the heart of the Rockies and extend north and south a distance of 40 miles, stretching east and west ten miles from the banks of the Elk river toward the boundary line between Alberta and British Columbia. The area is, of course, reduced by the creeks which abound on the mountain slopes and from which the coal measures have been eroded, but sufficient remains to constitute the coal fields, unique in extent as they are in richness.

Measure of Coin.

Money is measured by troy weight, in which 24 grains make a pennyweight, 20 pennyweights one ounce and 12 ounces one pound. The silver dollar weighs 412½ grains, and $1,000, as near as it can be expressed intelligently in print, weighs 71,614 pounds, or a fraction over 71½ pounds. In avoirdupois the same would weigh 58,928, or nearly 59 pounds.

Didn't Want Nursing.

A nurse visiting her patients in a Cape Town hospital ward found her favorite soldier fast asleep. Pinned to his coverlet was a scrap of paper on which he had scrawled: "To il to be nussed today, respectfully J. M."

A GOOD THING.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It quickly cures coughs, colds and all lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cts. Formosa produces by far the greatest quantity of camphor. The annual output amounts to between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 pounds, while the Japanese annual production is about 300,000, and that of China 220,000 pounds.

Many chemists regard sulphur, carbon, arsenic and some other substances as elements. M. Fittica, a French savant, however, says that arsenic is not an element, but a compound of phosphorus probably with oxygen and nitrogen. He has obtained arsenic by treating phosphorus with a large number of oxidizing agents, such as nitric acid, peroxid of barium, etc.

The soil of Peru contains the largest number of mineral species—at Pluraria, in the north, petroleum and sulphur; silver, lead, copper and coal in the great mining basin of Cerro de Pasco, in central Peru, and phosphate, quicksilver, auriferous grounds and borax at Arequipa, Carabaja, in the south. At the present time the number of mines in exploitation is 2,500, employing 70,000 workmen.

In the first half of the present year one of the London banks made a profit of $1,850,000 and another cleared over $1,200,000. Three more ranged from $1,150,000 down to $650,000, the smallest figures being equivalent to $1,300,000 in a year, or ten per cent. of $13,000,000. Banks that do as well as that are scarce in the United States. At least ten English banks, not including the Bank of England, made profits of more than $400,000 apiece in the first half of the present year, and they averaged about $800,000.

Simpkins' Mistake.

The new boarder was thin and wore spectacles.

Simpkins looked up with a start. "Butter is a noun," he said, "a common noun, singular number, neuter gender—" There he stopped. He saw that he had blundered.

As he handed her the plate with a conscience-stricken smile he realized through an inspiration that her pronunciation revealed the fact that she was direct from Boston.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE MAN IN OUR MIDST.

As the campaign warms up towards the final conflagration, the talk becomes more anxious, but a kind of what-is-to-be-will-be philosophy seems to be getting hold of people and there is a disposition to take things calmly and even extract some amusement from the proceedings, if possible. In taking a turn up or down the street one can hear all kinds of things and opinions. The best one yet expressed is one by Col. John Barringer. "Politics," he said, "is uncertain. It reminds me this year of the old story of the little boy's epitaph. The father had cut on the marble slab: 'Little Jonnie to us was given And now he's dead and gone to heaven.' 'A joker came along and wrote under it: 'You can't always sometimes, generally tell, Little Jonnie may be gone to h—ll.'"

The Rev. Livingston Johnson will have to be out of town on election day. He is very anxious to vote, and rather than miss it will have to cut his trip short and get back in time to vote. He was, therefore, up town making a canvass yesterday afternoon with a view of pairing. It was necessary to pair with a Democrat on the senatorial election and with a Republican on the presidential and congressional ones. He soon found a Democrat so far willing to forgo the pleasure of exercising the new privilege of voting for Senator as to be willing to make a stand-off with him. But getting the accommodation he was looking for from a Republican, was quite a different matter. At last some one directed him to Postmaster Tyre Glenn as probably being able to find him a man. Mr. Glenn was found.

"A Republican who will this year swap off his pleasure of voting?" said the postmaster. "No siree; you can't find him. Republicans are all too patriotic this year for that."

And Mr. Johnson had to look elsewhere.

A gentleman was exhibiting a unique campaign badge. It was a skeleton with a tag on its breast bearing the statement that "16 to 1 is Dead." This tag being raised, a picture of McKinley is exposed. The skeleton dangled from a wire spring fastened to the pin, and the restless way in which it jumped about caused some one to remark that it seemed to be a mighty live corpse.

Mr. E. J. Davis, who has just returned from a business trip through South Carolina for the Southern Stock Mutual Fire Insurance Company, says that in some sections of South Carolina the crops are a failure, while in some places they are very good. Contracts were made by tenants to pay rent in a specific number of pounds of cotton. In places the shortage leaves none whatever over the rent for the tenant. Although this is true in places, Mr. Davis thinks the average condition of the people of the State is as good as usual. One thing, which a few years ago would have been impossible, is that the sale of cotton seed has been a big asset with the farmers, and in a large measure compensated for the reduced returns from the lint.

A hardware man and a dry goods man who have stores nearly opposite each other on Elm Street, met yesterday on half way ground and bemoaned the weather. "Country people do not come to town on these warmer days," said the dealer in iron. "Somehow or other these pretty warm days trade all to pieces." "The town people don't come out either," said the dry goods man. "Just let the weather turn cold, though, and you'd see them come as soon as they could get their things on. It is one thing I could never understand, why people do not like to shop on beautiful mild days like this, but they don't!"

A hoghead of Horta Rico molasses being delivered by the Merchants Grocery Company yesterday to Pickard & Co. furnished a subject of remark for a passerby. It was taking some ten or twelve men with ropes to lower it into the cellar. "Now," said the passerby, "after these men are paid, the importers and dealers have made their profits, the freight from the interior of Porto Rico to the coast is paid, then on the water and on here, and the tariff, which Mr. McKinley had put on for the benefit of the Porto Ricans, and all the many other costs of handling are deducted, where does the Porto Rico cane grower's show come in? And how can we be enjoying the prosperity which Mr. Roosevelt says is going on in Porto Rico by leaps and bounds?"

wife driving and was gone most of the afternoon, part of which they spent chestnutting. Again on Saturday the couple went out for a drive, and they went over the same road where the murder was committed. On that occasion a number of school children saw the husband and wife sitting on the log alongside of which the woman's body was found by other school children yesterday. On Saturday afternoon Keffler stopped the carriage at the farm house of Charles Gechter, nearby, and asked if his wife could stop there while he would attend to some business down the road. Murder was surely in his heart that afternoon, and he is believed to have sought solitude and time in order to bolster up his courage. Keffler returned for his wife, and again his heart failed him. On these rides he did not excite in the least his wife's suspicions. On the contrary, he added to her happiness. Though in the letter explaining the double tragedy Keffler claimed his intention to also end his own life with that of his wife, at the same spot, he exhibited some of the craftiness of the murderer who wishes to hide his crime. Instead of taking his wife out riding from their home yesterday, he met her at an appointed place. They rode six miles, and when Daniel Mosser's farm, on the Oley turnpike, was reached, they got out of the carriage. Keffler helped his wife over the fence and jumped after her. While they were gathering chestnuts Keffler espied Mosser looking at them from a distance. He jumped back over the fence and called, in a kindly voice, for his wife to follow. She did so, and both drove off, as if fearing a lecture from the owner of the chestnuts.

LAUGH SILENCED BY A BULLET.

After a short drive the vehicle was driven on to the deserted blind road. There is only one place where the width of the road is great enough for a vehicle to turn. This turn was made, and the horse was driven along several hundred yards, probably at a walk, to the fatal spot. The murdered woman knew only for an instant her fate, when the muzzle of the revolver was pressed against her face, under the right eye. Too cowardly to look his victim in the eye Keffler killed her while her face was averted, probably when he called her attention to something on the roadside, and, maybe, while laughter rippled on her lips in one of her happy moments.

The big bullet was sent crashing into her brain, and this was followed by another, that plowed after the other in the same path. From the blood-spattered condition of the carriage and the murderer's clothes, the woman's head, from which spurted her life-fluid, fell over on his breast. With the fiend in him aroused by the sight of blood, or, perhaps, in fear, after the awful deed, he pushed the body of his victim, who weighed 175 pounds, over the side of the carriage into the hollow at the roadside. The story of the murderer's ride back to the city and the finding of the carriage has been told.

SLAYER'S LAST WORDS TO HIS CHILD.

Within an hour after the murder Keffler appeared at his residence and asked: "Is Emma home?" He was told that she was not, and as he started out again his little child Carrie lispingly asked: "Where are you going papa?" His answer was "I'm going to hunt mamma." True to his word, he went after his wife into the unknown world. How he spent the night roaming about the city, trying to pick up courage to end it all, may never be told. The body was found at the coal chutes, on Neversink street, between Bingham street and Eighth street bridge, at half-past 6 o'clock this morning. Keffler had been dead about an hour. The bullet had entered under the right eye, and the 33-calibre revolver, with three chambers empty, was found between his feet. In one of his pockets was found a programme of the "Peck's Bad Boy" show and the rote, written on a half-sheet of letter paper, explaining the murder and suicide, as follows:

"Dear mother: Forgive me for what I have done. I was out of my mind when I done this dirty deed. I loved Emma with all the love I had, but you know she did not treat me half right. I left the mill for another job and was disappointed. She said that she was going to leave me again, and if she did not succeed she would kill me. She would not come back like the other time. My intention was to shoot her and then myself, but I was so terribly frightened I ran off. I am very sorry that I done it, but it is too late. Mama, forgive me. I wasn't altogether. You might think that Emma was the cause of it. She drove me crazy. No man with good common sense would do such a thing. If you can, try and bury us together. That is my wish. I love Emma yet, and if I could get her back I would never attempt to do it again. Forgive me for doing as I did. I was crazy. That is all. Tell Emma's mother to forgive me, because I was crazy. If I only had another chance this would never have happened. I would have let her kill me. That would have been better. I say good-bye to everybody. Forgive me, with many kisses for my little child. I hope that I can die as Emma did. Forgive me. I did not know what I was doing. Your wayward son, CHARLES.

P. S.—Do not think it hard of me I did not know what I was doing. Emma had me crazy. I was to die on the same spot, but I got scared and, like a cowardly dog, I ran off."

As the letter indicates, Keffler was driven to the dead fearing that his wife would leave him. The relatives may gratify his wish to bury both together, but the funeral will be private, and held from the undertaker's establishment. The sad feature of the affair that must ever remain so, concerns the orphaned daughter. Though she has constantly asked for her mother, whom she loved dearly and was so loved, she has so far been kept in ignorance of the fact that she has neither father nor mother.

THE MEETING TIME.

Oh, bitter is the sorrow
When here we part in tears,
And heavy is the burden
Of long and lonely years!
But what will be the meeting
When life's sad journey's past,
Within the Father's keeping
We find our own at last!

As mists that cloud the morning—
As shadows of the night—
Forgotten in the glory
Of noontide's radiant light,
The weary years of waiting
As nothing then shall seem,
The pain, the loss, the sorrow—
Remembered as a dream.

Oh, what will be the meeting!
No words its joy may frame!
When face to face we see them,
Immortal—yet the same;
When dear, long-silent voices
Shall speak our names once more,
And smiles of welcome greet us
As fondly as of yore!

Oh, blessed thought of comfort,
When those we love have gone
To seek a better country,
And we are left alone!
Shall we not wait in patience
A little longer here,
As those who know that daily
The meeting time draws near?

THERE MAY BE NEW CAPITAL.

Peking, It Is Thought, Can Never Again Be Residence of Foreign Ambassadors.

The prediction is already made in certain highly influential quarters that none of the civilized powers of the world will ever again send ambassadors to Peking. The situation is now far enough advanced to make it plain that if the Chinese empire is to maintain its integrity it must be at the cost of such concessions to other nations as shall form absolute guarantees against outrageous and sudden treachery on the part of the Chinese government. There are very few guarantees that China can give which the rest of the world would accept as worth anything, but first among these is the removal of the capital to a point where the powers holding diplomatic relations with China can reach and protect their representatives readily and effectively. They cannot take the chances again of a siege of the legations in the interior of China.

The essential condition is that the capital of China shall be within reach of the naval forces of other nations. This would be a hard and intolerable condition to exact of a power holding equality in the international family. But China is not such a power and cannot be treated as such. She will have to accept the position in which her late eccentricity has placed her and yield to the demands for security exacted by those with which she associates.

There ought to be no difficulty in arranging this transfer of the seat of government. Nanking, the ancient capital of the "Middle Kingdom," or China proper, would be entirely satisfactory. But Peking, which only by good fortune has been taken by the allies after a long and arduous military expedition, and which might not have been taken at all if the Chinese had been prompt in flooding the surrounding country, can never again be the residence and trap of foreign ambassadors.

AUTOMOBILE STAGE COACHES.

Homeless Carriages to Carry Mail and Passengers Over Mountain Roads of Idaho.

An automobile stage line will soon be in operation in Idaho, and if it stands the test of time at least one other will be started, says the Chicago Tribune.

E. A. Readicker, who operates a stage line between Challis and Salmon City and another between Dubois and Ellis, recently purchased an automobile in New York and has been experimenting with it. He has employed it already in carrying mail and intends to buy others to carry both mail and passengers if the first does not break down every now and then in some lonely spot miles from where it can be repaired.

The trial runs have been made between Dubois and Ellis, a distance of 150 miles. The road runs through sand and dust, over hills and through the heart of the Salmon River mountain. The automobile plowed through the sand, climbed the hills, and sped over the level places without a mishap at an average of ten miles an hour.

The vehicle used for the experiments is single-seated and is fitted below with a frame for carrying mail. Gasoline furnishes the driving power.

There are many difficulties to overcome before automobiles can be entirely successful on the mountain roads. Sharp rocks are apt to puncture the pneumatic tires, and it takes a tremendous driving power to get over some of the roads. Moreover, there are portions of Idaho in the mountains which are many miles from a habitation. If the power should give out in one of these spots the pilgrimage of 25 miles or so to a house and the wait of a day or days for relief would be far from cheerful to the passengers.

NO MORE SELF-MADE MEN.

At Least They Must Conceal the Fact If They Are, and Claim High Descent.

From the highest home to the lowest in America this idea of caste has entered, destroying our old, high ideals and making us pretentious and vulgar, writes "An American Mother," of "How We Can Lead a Simple Life," in Ladies' Home Journal. "The idle rich man covets high social place with a hunger that is both ridiculous and tragic. If he has money enough he buys a titled husband for his daughter. He tries to establish a precedence for himself over his neighbors by claims of high descent. Nor is this appreciation of rank confined to the leisured class in this country. It is universal. No candidate for office finds it necessary now to pose as a self-made man or to put his respectable ancestors out of sight. The self-made man is no longer noble ancestors are in such demand that if we do not have them we invent them as we do air brakes or motors, or the popular hero. On the contrary, anything else necessary to our well-being and comfort. The rich American finds it as easy to have a coat-of-arms and a pedigree as to have a dress-coat. He seldom goes to Burke or the Herald's college for these things. He plants and grows his own family tree as he does his maple at the front door."

Russia's Way of Raising Money.

The recent increase in Russia of all duties on imported goods is destined to pay for the Chinese expedition. Thus, says the Vienna Fremdenblatt, Russia defrays the expense of the alliance war out of the pockets of the allies. The cotton goods of England and Germany, the jewels and the wine of France, the products of America, Italy and Austria must make it possible for Russia to fight side to side with England, Germany, France, America, Italy and Austria. Perhaps the high duties will still remain when the last Boxer has yielded to the international forces. So Russia will be a winner, anyway. Wise Mr. Witte.

Broke the Record

We broke the record in "Clover Hill Butter" in October, having handled 1,756 lbs, which is more than we ever handled in any one month, except the two months we had our guessing contest going on. Clover Hill Butter is just good, pure wholesome, sweet butter, nothing more or less, made by the most cleanly and scientific method. A natural product, retaining the very purity and flavor of the clover fields; put up in dainty 1 pound packages. If you have not tried it yet do so at once and you will always be a user of "Clover Hill."

TOWN TOPICS TONIGHT.

The conglomeration of fun and nonsense which one of A. Q. Scammon's companies is presenting under the title of "Town Topics" is advertised as a laugh producer and nothing else, and every place it has been presented this season it has "made good" in every respect. It is a bright, clean, wholesome production and that it is thoroughly enjoyable is evidenced by the applause that is almost continuous at every performance wherever it appears. "Town Topics" will be presented at the Academy tonight and that it will be well received and well patronized is not a conjecture, but a certainty.
